The guests were welcomed by Maxim Pasholikhov, Vice-Rector for Youth Policy and Communication Technologies of SPbPU, who noted that the festival was an incredible event for all young people and left many impressions. He also spoke about the main directions of SPbPU's activities

Activists of the Harmony Volunteer Projects Center of SPbPU prepared an interesting program for the guests. First, they conducted a tour of the campus, then in the Main Building they saw the gallery of outstanding Polytechnic scientists, visited the Academic Council meeting room, took pictures on the White Staircase and enjoyed the beauty of the White Hall. In the Polytechnic History Museum, the participants learned about the main stages of the university's formation.

I was given the opportunity to show the foreign participants of the World Youth Festival our favorite Polytechnic University, and it is unforgettable! I spoke about the advanced technologies and the main scientific discoveries of our university. Among the guests were engineering students, but humanities students were also interested. I am proud to be a Polytechnic University student, shared Teguh Imanullah, a volunteer of the Harmony Volunteer Center.

During the master class, the children created designer T-shirts: they used acrylic paints to paint the WYF symbol — Cheburashka. Delegates could take the T-shirt as a souvenir or donate it as a gift to the «basket of good» within the framework of the All-Russian campaign «UsTogether».

We are proud of our country, our favorite city and our native university, It was a great pleasure to meet active young people from different corners of our planet at Polytechnic. We exchanged contacts, discussed plans and future meetings. It was a pleasure to be a part of the World Youth Festival once again within the framework of the regional agenda. The guys promised to return to Polytechnic University and St. Petersburg, said Tatiana Nam, Director of the Harmony Dobro.Center of SPbPU.
