

Carbon market cooperation getting into full swing

Last fall the focus of the work group of the SPbPU Representative office in Shanghai shifted to one of the key directions of science and technology development – nanomaterials and carbon technologies. The Chinese government provides financial support for a large-scale national project – Inner Mongolia Carbon Valley. It is a replica of the Silicon Valley in California which will be a hub of science, manufacturing and innovation related to application of carbon-based composite materials.

>>Перейти к новости

>>Перейти ко всем новостям