

Dialogue of cultures: meeting of the Polytechnic Fellowcountrymen's association

Dmitry Arseniev, Vice-Rector for International Affairs of SPbPU, had a working meeting with the new members of the Polytechnic Fellowcountrymen's association, which began its work this year.

In today's world, where globalization plays an important role, interaction between different cultures and nationalities is becoming more and more important. In this context, the work of foreign fellowcountrymen in Polytechnic University acquires special importance. The participants of the Association included representatives from Angola, China, Colombia, China, Democratic Republic of Congo, Democratic Republic of Congo, Guinea, Indonesia, Sri Lanka, Syria, Turkmenistan, Syria and Vietnam.

Fellowcountrymen's association at Polytechnic is a valuable resource for sharing knowledge and experience, said Dmitry Arseniev. International students bring with them their unique cultural and professional perspectives that can enrich the educational process and scientific research.

Pavel Nedelko, Assistant Vice-Rector, presented the structure of the PolyUnion ecosystem, which includes TutorForces, the Fellowcountrymen's association, and the Interclub.

The members of the Fellowcountrymen's association are ambassadors in establishing connections with other universities and organizations in their countries. They can be involved in organizing internships, academic mobility and research projects with foreign partners. This opens new opportunities for SPbPU experience.
