

Engineers develop compact, lightweight radiator for cooling EV batteries. Inceptive Mind

The development of the electric transport industry stimulates the search for new solutions in the field of creating rechargeable batteries, which are subject to special requirements in terms of energy consumption, weight, dimensions, and safety. Every year, these requirements are increasing, which leads to the introduction of new manufacturing technologies. An important part of such a battery is the cooling system.

Inceptive Mind

Дата публикации: 2021.04.17

>>Перейти к новости

>>Перейти ко всем новостям