

Scientists develop an artificial intelligence system for analyzing endoscopic images. News-Medical Researchers of Peter the Great St.Petersburg Polytechnic University (SPbPU), in collaboration with the Almazov National Medical Research Centre, developed an artificial intelligence system for analyzing endoscopic images (mucous membranes of organs). Such an approach is required for conducting mass screening studies, as well as for examining patients in remote settlements in conditions of lack of hi-tech medical equipment.

News-Medical

Дата публикации: 2021.01.20

>>Перейти к новости

>>Перейти ко всем новостям